Position Title

CGSUSA "Mapping CGS" Project Volunteer

Purpose and Impact

CGS has been nurturing the child's relationship with God for over 40 years in the US. As the work has grown and spread, it is attracting the attention of the USCCB, university programs, and foundations, in addition to the many families who desire to learn more about the method.

Help CGSUSA map the work in the US by doing a short phone survey in your local region or beyond. By mapping the work, you will help CGSUSA quantify the growth, spread, and desire for this method which will help us qualify for future grants to support the work.

Scope of Work & Project deliverables

Phone survey to leadership of churches, schools, and others who are using CGS

Provide notes on responses to questionnaires (CGSUSA to provide)

Skills & Attributes

Friendly, people-person with excellent communication skills
Independent worker
Well-organized
Persistent

Timeframe/schedule

5 hours/week, flexible hours. We envision this as a 3-month project and would like to fill the position by January 1, 2016.

Work Space

Work from home and submit reports via computer

Work Environment

We are a joyful group of colleagues in a casual but professional environment. We are spiritually-oriented, we love celebrations, and we enjoy sharing our mission and vision with visitors through sincere hospitality.

Volunteer will be supervised by the Mapping CGSUSA Project Leader and participate in occasional phone calls as needed.

Motivators and Benefits

CGSUSA offers many benefits to our volunteers including: national acknowledgement and exposure through our website; local professional development and networking opportunities; participation in diocesan stewardship gatherings; a complementary one-year membership in CGSUSA with a copy of our 2015 publication, Like Leaven; a discount on catechist formation courses; invitations to CGSUSA events and retreats and our annual Thanksgiving volunteer celebration, along with inclusion in regular office celebrations.

The "Mapping CGS" Project Volunteer will help develop awareness of CGSUSA as a leading voice in the spirituality of the child.
