

Susan Stuhlsatz-Reese

Susan Stuhlsatz-Reese (Sue Reese) never expected to follow in the footsteps of her mother by working in the religious formation of children. She says that CGS is a gift that fell into her lap, and she's been passionately involved ever since.

Sue has been active in the atrium since 1997, proclaiming and listening to the Word of God with children, and doing the behind the scenes work with the help of many hearts and hands to create and maintain the atrium. In 2010 she started working with formation courses as a Level I formation leader and is now working toward Level II formation. In 2014 she began volunteering with the Membership Committee with CGS. She relishes working with the families of babies, and is looking forward to the new challenges of beginning a Toddler atrium and a regional association.

Past experience includes working as a pharmacist manager of a small store, serving as a Cubmaster and on the Boy Scout committee, serving as Vice President of a youth hockey club, and serving on the Youth Faith Formation Commission at church. This allowed her to gain experience in budgeting and fundraising, and to hone her communication skills.

Sue is married to a wonderful, supportive man who helps her with making materials and navigating the joys of family life with three grown children, and one grandson. Her household is completed with the presence of two pampered dogs.
